Genuine humility can be hard to find in our current culture. Yet when sought and accepted, especially among men, this virtue will rock our world. In this retreat, we'll explore together what true humility looks like and how it changes us for the good.

Our facilitator, Jim Smith, has led retreats for over 30 years in both religious and non-religious settings. He currently serves as director of Mission Integration for Benedictine Health System, encouraging employees to bring their best and truest selves to work. In his role, he is immersing himself in the rich trove of Benedictine spirituality.
